Disko Island. Arctic Flowers. In July, the only month in Greenland when there is no snow, the flowers and the mosquitoes rush out into vivid life together. The heat in the long summer days is so great that the water left in rocks and clefts by the tide is reduced to a fine salt, and the flowers burst out into a perfect blaze of colour, poppies and saxifrage staining the valleys scarlet and blue among a green haze of dwarf willow.

Processed in Bavaria.
